DESCRIPTION OF CHURCH/ORGANISATION/PLACEMENT PROVIDER'S WORK

I am currently working on 3 projects: a monograph on theological anthropology, a monograph on ecclesiology, and a monograph on relational theology. I am also working on various peer-reviewed articles and book chapters developed from the above projects and which are developing my thought on future projects on the topics of the doctrine of sin and autism theology.

DESCRIPTION OF POSSIBLE PLACEMENT ROLE(S) AND ANY PARTICULAR ATTRIBUTES SOUGHT IN A PLACEMENT STUDENT

I am looking for a student who is potentially interested in a career in theological academia. The ideal candidate would have interest in/developed skills in academic writing, research, teaching/tutoring, and general administrative report. Preference will be given to candidates with a keen theological interest in theological anthropology, ecclesiology, relational theology, the doctrine of sin, and/or neurodiversity. I plan to develop this role in conversation with the individual; I want the placement to both benefit your development as a scholar while also aiding my research and teaching. While my aim will be to give the candidate a range of experience that they can draw on for an academic career, there is room for negotiating what will be helpful to the student who takes up this role and what skills are brought to the table. Below I include a list of potential responsibilities and opportunities which the student may take advantage of.

Potential responsibilities:

- copyediting
- indexing
- footnote chasing
- research assistance
- teaching assistance
- admin support

Opportunities to take advantage of:

- potential teaching/tutorial experience
- academic mentorship for those interested in a career in theological academia
- networking opportunities with active theological scholars in the field
- research experience/opportunities to both develop your skills and participate in published, academic theological research
